Editorial

The New Colony

Beginning with this month's edition; our readers and subscribers will no doubt notice several dramatic changes in the format presentation and content of Colony News.

The first noticeable change to Colony News is the new professionally-bound magazine format cover. We went to great expense to provide our readers with an easy to handle magazine; deleting the spinal slide backbones previously used.

The second, and more important change is in the expanded content. Colony News has increased it's research time and capabilities immensely in order to present our readers full World News coverage.

The third, and most obvious change, is our publications' name change from Colony News to World Colony News.

We feel the name change is more representative of the growing World Colony that is enveloping us.

Entitled Colony World News; we have included a section solely devoted to informing our readers of items of interest pertaining to Global activity.

Naturally, we will continue to provide our readers with articles of domestic importance written and submitted by our fine staff; contributing writers such as Mike Rowley, Mike Kemp, and most importantly: You, our Readers and Subscribers.

Because of these improvements, the yearly subscription price will increase to $24.95, still only $2.08 per issue. The single copy price will be $4 per issue.

However, subscribers wishing to renew their subscription by December 31st of this year will be able to renew at only $19.95 per year.

We have devoted much time, work, research and cost into publishing World Colony News, and sincerely hope you, our readers, benefit from it's information and obtain satisfaction from it's format and content.

November begins our second full year of publishing, and we, the editor and staff, would like to offer our gratitude to Michael Devlin, publisher.

World Colony News could not survive without the financial and moral support supplied by Mr. Devlin. His vision is one of dedicated long-term commitment to our publication. We also appreciate our readers who make it all possible.

From Congress

American Land Sovereignty Protection Act

Representative Young of Alaska introduced and proposed to suspend the rules and pass the American Land Sovereignty Protection Act of 1996.

The intent of the Act is to preserve the sovereignty of the United States over public lands and acquired lands owned by the United States, and to preserve State sovereignty and private property rights in non-Federal lands surrounding those public lands and acquired lands as amended.

Sec. I Title

American Land Sovereignty Protection Act of 1996

Sec. II

Findings:

- The power to dispose of and make all needful rules and regulations governing lands belonging to the US is vested in the Congress under article IV, sec. 3, of the Constitution
- Some Federal land designations made pursuant to international agreements concern land use policies and regulations for lands belonging to the US which under article IV, sec 3, of the Constitution can only be implemented through laws enacted by the Congress

- Some international land designations, such as those under the US Biosphere Reserve Program and the Man and Biosphere Program of the United Nations Scientific, Educational, and Cultural Organization, operate under independent national committees, such as the US National Man and Biosphere Committee, which have no legislative directives or authorization from the Congress
- Actions by the US in making such designations may affect the use and value of nearby or intermixed non-Federal lands
- The sovereignty of the States is a critical component of our Federal system of government and a bulwark against the unwise concentration of power
- Private property rights are essential for the protection of freedom
- Actions by the US to designate lands belonging to the US pursuant to international agreements in some cases conflict with congressional constitutional responsibilities and State sovereign capabilities
- Actions by the President in applying certain international agreements to lands owned by the US diminishes the authority of the Congress to make rules and regulations respecting these lands

Purpose

- To reaffirm the power of the Congress under article IV, sec 3, of the Constitution over international agreements which concern disposal, management, and use of lands belonging to the United States
- To protect State powers not reserved to the Federal Government under the Constitution from Federal actions designating lands pursuant to international agreements

- To ensure that no US citizen suffers any diminishment as a result of Federal actions designating lands pursuant to international agreements
- To provide a process under which the US may, when desirable, designate lands pursuant to international agreements

Sec. III Clarification of Congressional Role in World Heritage Site Listing

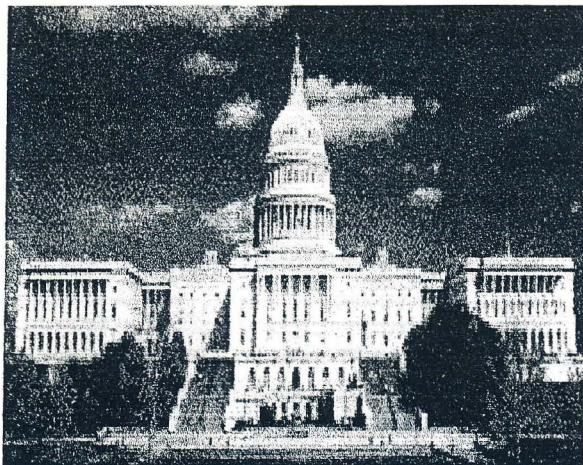

- The Secretary of the Interior shall not nominate any lands owned by the US for inclusion on the World Heritage List pursuant to the Convention unless such nomination is specifically authorized by a law enacted after the date of enactment of the American Land Sovereignty Protection Act of 1996. The Secretary may from time to time submit to the Speaker of the House and the President of the Senate proposals for legislation authorizing such a nomination
- The Secretary of the Interior shall object to the inclusion of any property in the US on the list of World Heritage in Danger established under Article II.4 of the Convention unless-----
- The Secretary has submitted to the Speaker of the House and the President of the Senate a report describing the necessity for including that property on the list

- The Secretary is specifically authorized to assent to the inclusion of the property on the list, by a joint resolution of the Congress enacted after the date that report is submitted
- The Secretary of the Interior shall submit an annual report on each World Heritage Site within the US to the Chairman and Ranking Minority member of the Committee on Resources of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources of the Senate, that contains the following information for each site:
 - 1-An accounting of all money expended to manage the site
 - 2-A summary of Federal full time equivalent hours related to management of the site
 - 3-A list and explanation of all nongovernmental organizations contributing to the management of the site
 - 4-A summary and account of the disposition of complaints received by the Secretary related to management of the site

Sec IV Prohibition and Termination of UN Biosphere Reserves

- No Federal official may nominate any lands in the United States for designation as a Biosphere Reserve
- Organizations shall not have, and shall not be given, any force or effect, unless the Biosphere Reserve is :
 - 1-Authorized by law
 - 2-Consists solely of lands owned by the US
 - 3-Is subject to management plan that ensures adjacent non-Federal property is not restricted
 - 4-An accounting of all money expended to manage the reserve
 - 5-List of nongovernmental organizations contributing to reserve management

More on this bill's provisions next month.

Mental Health Parity Amendment

Senator Domenici proposed the Mental Health Parity Act be included in the final Appropriations Bill for the Dept.'s of HUD and Veterans Administration.

This bill means mental health would be fully covered as physical health care is now. Most states now allow up to 90 days a year for mental health treatment; despite psychiatrists who term all mental health problems as being life-long.

Under Domenici's provision, insurance coverage for mental health would max out at $1,000 per day. Designating these illnesses as life-long could cost a incredible amount of public and private funds.

A second side effect of this new-found focus on mental disorders is the increasing number of children being administered psychiatric drugs daily, due to these children being diagnosed with Opposition Defiance Disorder, Attention Deficit Disorder (I'm afflicted with this disorder anytime a politician or the government speaks) Arithmetic or Reading Dysphoric Disorder to name a few.

The Domenici Amendment provides for financial incentives for increasing the number of children diagnosed with these illnesses.

Proving the Psychiatric Industry is Loony as a Susan B. Anthony Dollar; Harvard Psychiatrist

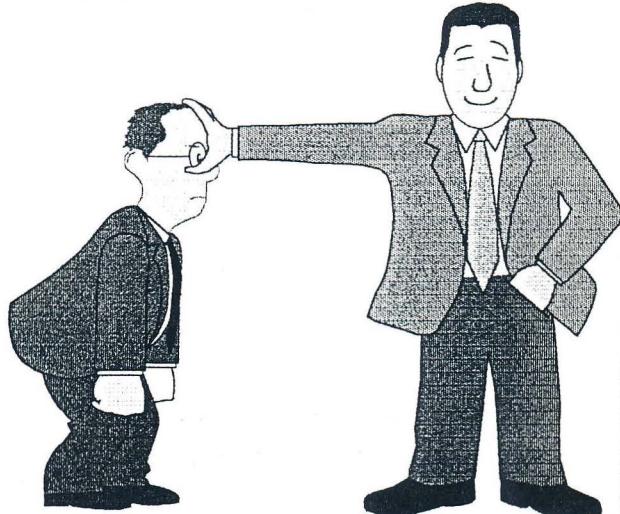

Chester Pierce issued this astute pronouncement:

Every child in America entering school at the age of five is mentally ill because they come to school with certain allegiances to our founding fathers, elected officials, parents, belief in a supernatural being, and the sovereignty of this nation. It's up to you as teachers to make all these sick children well-by creating the International Child of the Future!

The Mental Health industry are promising Congress the Domenici Amendment will only add 1% to 3% increase onto the cost of health coverage. The amendment increases the lifetime cap on mental health coverage to $1 million, and mandates all business owners must provide mental as well as physical coverage.

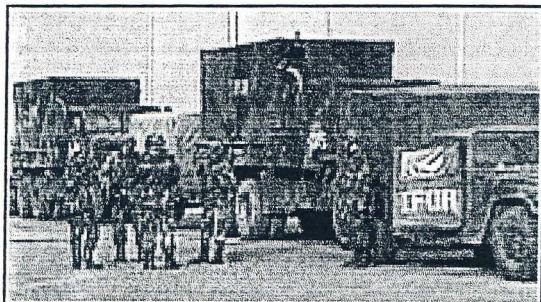

Mental health already is the largest rip-off of the insurance and Medicaid system. Millions of Americans are collecting SSI and other benefits while claiming a plethora of related illnesses. An added emphasis will be on school systems classifying kids as mentally deficient because of the inevitable federal funds to be available.

Under Domenici's Bill, the entire nation could qualify for Mental Health payments; after all, any mass of people stupid enough to live in a nation operated and ruled by Tyrants would surely qualify as mentally deficient. Senator Domenici may have just let the Genie out of the bottle.

America's New Army of The 21st Century

By: George Novak

The Army is in the process of fundamental change within its organizational and training structure. A reconceptualization and redesign of the force at all echelons, from the foxhole to the industrial base is well underway.

According to new Army doctrine, the force of the future will be Force XXI, organized around information technologies. The Army has shifted its physical focus from a predominately forward deployed force to a CONUS based force projection Army.

Since the end of the Cold War, eight divisions, one corps and associated support units have been inactivated. Yet, some 127,000 Army personnel remain forward deployed in almost 50 countries.

Some of the re-directions the new Army faces are the redesign of forces to be able to meet military requirements against a host of ill-defined threats. One of the more interesting training changes that has taken place is through the Louisiana Maneuvers (LAM) process. The Army has been systematically retraining its officers and troops in Urban warfare, as opposed to Jungle or Sand Warfare.

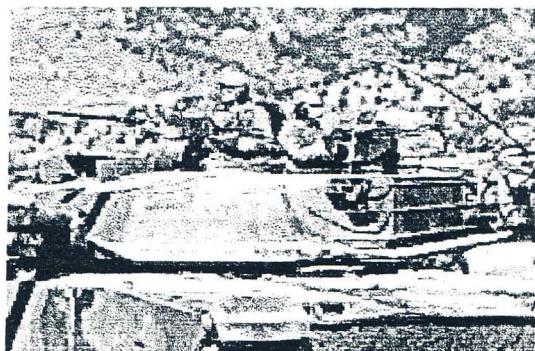

The Army is now attuned to the fact they cannot be designed against a single threat; that multiple domestic and foreign urban activities may be required. The new Force XXI's implementation, investment, and fielding decisions will be approved by a Board of Directors (BoD) and fully synchronized with the program memorandum (POM) cycle.

According to Force XXI policy directives; frequent, varied deployments in Operations Other Than War (OOTW), to include assistance to civilian authorities, will continue through the year 2010.

The new Army's campaign will be conducted along three axis, one of concept and design of the operating forces (Little a Army), one of concept and design of the TDA/Institutional Army (Big A Army), and a third axis of acquisition and assimilation of information age digitization capabilities.

Force XXI will control the power of information and technology and incorporate unprecedented battle command capabilities in order to ensure a more lethal, more mobile, and more survivable fighting force by exploiting the Army's modernization focus.

The Army has been carefully studying the results and impact of recent joint venture training exercises, especially Operation Prairie Warrior. The Army has issued field orders to all officers and units to conduct experimentation in coordination with and in support of Operation Joint Venture to ensure the Force XXI TDA/Institutional Army supports the redesigned operating force.

Other Army directives are to:

- 1- Articulate the strategic objectives for Force XXI efforts

- 2- Coordinate and execute the 4 Star Board of Directors meetings
- 3- Participate as partner in the Joint Venture
- 4- Serve as executive agent for the TDA/Institutional Axis
- 5- Establish the baseline for Advanced Warfighting Experiments (AWE). Coordinate experimental design, data collection, analysis and reporting for AWEs and exercises.

The Army's Louisiana Maneuvers Task Force has been directed to:

- 1- Coordinate and synchronize execution of the Force XXI Campaign Plan
- 2- Plan, coordinate and execute Force XXI AARs
- 3- Identify and leverage enabling technologies such as STOW, to support development of Force XXI as well as to provide measurable value added to on-going real world operations.

A recent addition to the Army's New Force is the extensive urban training being conducted at Fort Campbell, Kentucky, by the 101st Airborne Division and the 160th Special Operations Aviation Regiment (Soar). Also known as the Nightstalkers, this specialized unit exclusively flies Little Bird and Apache helicopter gunships. They are responsible for the many reported sightings of Black helicopters flying nightly over our urban centers.

The Black-little Birds have been repeatedly observed participating in maneuvers over Pittsburgh, Los Angles, Mobile, and were present during the government's murderous siege upon Waco.

The 160th Division is a specialty unit trained to perform Urban Insertion, employing paratroopers. It was two Fort Campbell insertion helicopters that crashed into each other during this past summer while conducting nighttime maneuvers.

It seems quite obvious specialized military units are being trained for domestic urban warfare scenarios, despite Title 18, Section 1385 of the U.S. Code that makes such use of the military against American citizens Illegal and Unconstitutional.

Then again, the very fact this country maintains a Standing Army during times of peace is blatantly unconstitutional, Executive Maritime War Powers Emergency Acts notwithstanding.

As stated in previous Issues of Colony News, military peacekeeping missions in Somalia, Haiti, and Bosnia can only be explained as precursors to peacekeeping missions soon to be enacted upon American cities, towns, and rural areas.

There appears to be a wide disconnect between the Pentagon's view of law and Constitutional law. Reminiscent of the Legions of Rome is the Pentagon.

Are Children's Rights Going Too Far

By: Marge Zinther

Recent boxes of Post cereal, compliments of Cable station Nickelodeon, contain a Free-Prize different than what most of us grew up expecting. No, it's not a toy enclosed, it is the Kids Bill Of Rights card; to be carried on their person at all times I imagine. It reads as follows:

YOU have the right to be seen, heard, and respected as a citizen of the world

YOU have the right to a world that's peaceful and an environment that's not spoiled

YOU have the right to be treated with equality, regardless of race, religion, nationality, sex, personality, grades or size

YOU have the right to make mistakes without someone making you feel like a jerkhead

YOU have the right to an education that prepares you to run the world when it's your turn

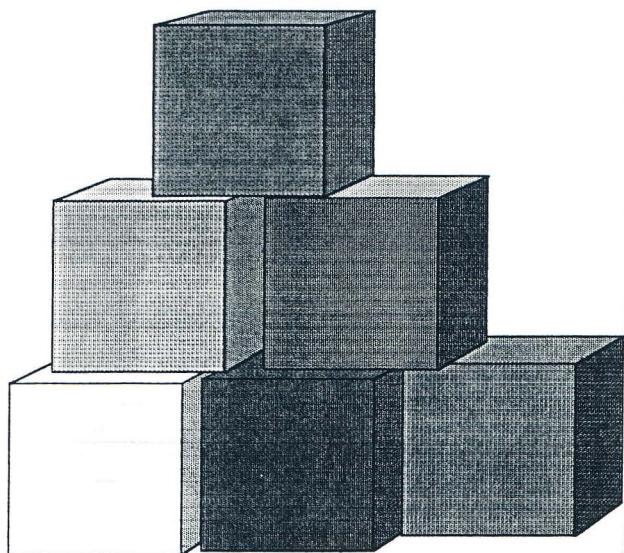

YOU have the right to your opinions and feelings, even if others don't agree with them.

That's That!

Accordingly, as a child now, I would be a citizen of the world (not my home state), entitled to a guaranteed peaceful existence (tell that to Bosnian, Rwandan, and Cambodian children), am allowed to be constantly wrong (without being corrected), guaranteed an education projecting me to rule the world (not a state, or country-but the World), and most importantly of all; The Right To My Own Opinion (meaning I can denounce certain groups, races, religions etc., Without fear of hate speech condemnation) - Great, sign me up.

Ladies and gentleman, this is part of the joke kid's rights have become. I know of no one who doesn't wish the very best for all children, and most parents go to the ends of the earth to provide a suitable economic, educational and family valued upbringing for their children. Parents do this out of Love, and Responsibility, not because of intimidating kids rights.

Building blocks or creating problems

Documents produced by the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child, adopted by the General Assembly in 1989 state there is great hope children's rights will become universally sanctioned.

The General Assembly also agreed children, like humans everywhere, transcend the arbitrary, invisible borders used to define the exclusive nation-states we have created.

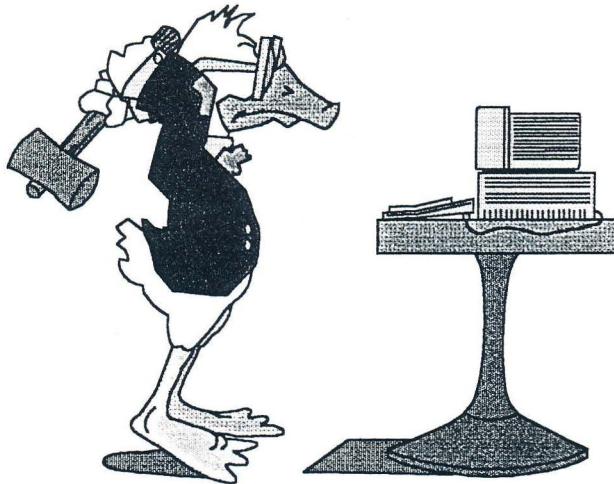

Excuse us all to hell for creating our own nation-states outside of the World Colony.

Continuing, the UN stated children's rights are essential, and that, other than saving earth, nothing is more important, AND IT CAN ONLY BE MANDATED BY WORLD LAW.

Although the Convention's Preamble states that the child needs special safeguards and care, before as well as after birth, it ambiguously defines a child as every human being below the age of 18 years.

Cynthia Price Cohen, the Israeli Executive Director of Child Rights International, and a drafter of the Conventions documents has agreed upon The Universal Declaration of Human Rights for children. (This Israeli would do well to study the Declaration of Independence which created the nation-state of America)

Price Cohen further emphasized the importance of applying a world view to the enforcement of children's rights when she stated: Whether we like it or not, we're living in a world community and we have to create structures to deal with these global issues.

We would like to inform Price Cohen, and Hillary also for that matter; It doesn't take a World Colony, or a Village to raise and protect a child – it takes a Family! But, what the hell would Hillary know about that anyway.

Are the parents of every nation on earth willing to forego their child-rearing responsibilities in favor of a World Parental commission? The Universal Declaration of Human Rights appoints a children's world ombudsperson with authority to intervene on behalf of children whose rights may have been violated.

Are American parents now going to have to answer to a World Ombudsperson regarding the behavior of their kids, or their own? As it is, we can't spank them, correct them, educate them, nor even have them sometimes. What's left.

The Second Amendment to the United States Constitution

By: Bill Utterback

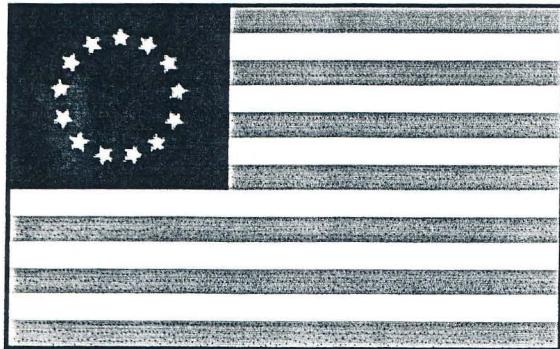

A well regulated Militia, being necessary to the security of a free state, the right of the people to keep and bear Arms, shall not be infringed

Expanded Version

A well regulated (well trained and well organized) Militia, being necessary to the security of a free State (secure from external invasion, secure from internal disorder, and secure from an unconstitutional federal government gone out of control,) the right of the people (all individuals) to keep and bear Arms (of any type, especially military type weapons,) shall not be infringed (not interfered with the least little bit.)

Note that it is the "people" who keep and bear to form the "militia". The reason why the second amendment was written to specify that the people retain the right to keep and bear arms to form the militia is to prevent the government from forming a "select militia" such as the National Guard and disarming the people under the false pretense that the select militia was the only militia. The federal government operates with the authority delegated to it by the people through the Constitution. The federal government has NO

AUTHORITY and NO PROPER POWER to do ANYTHING when the authority to do that has not been specifically delegated to the government.

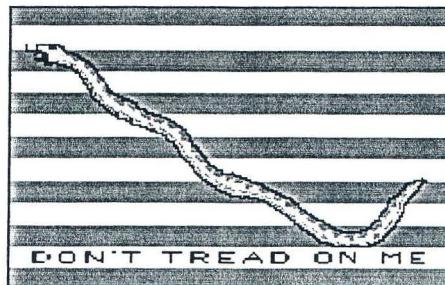

The Bill of Rights grants no rights, but acts to prevent the government from interfering with the pre-existing rights of the people. The Second Amendment states the “the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed.” This means that ALL of the people have the right to keep and bear arms OF UNLIMITED TYPES and especially of military types since the Second Amendment, after all, is talking about militia.

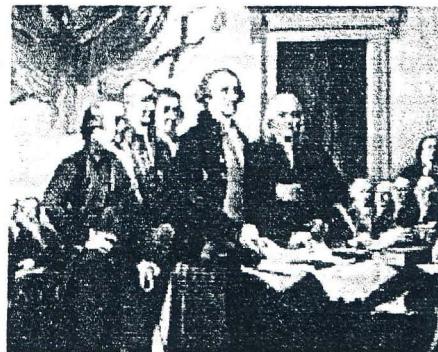

“Not be infringed” means not to be limited or interfered with the LEAST LITTLE BIT. The government has NO AUTHORITY to limit or regulate arms of the militia or arms of the people - militia and people meaning the same thing. The term “well regulated” in the Second Amendment means well trained and well organized, such training and organization now being the responsibility of the people and sometimes delegated to state governments by the people. It is the people, acting as the militia, who provide the ultimate security of a free state.

The term regulated is commonly used today to mean governed or controlled, however, the phrase ““well regulated” as used in the Second Amendment and commonly used in the 18th century when the document was drafted, means well maintained, well trained, or well tuned – in other words, kept regular.

It did not refer to congressional control or management of the militia. For such a result would effectively turn the militia into a mere tool of the federal government and defeat the very purposes of the Second Amendment, which included preventing the government from keeping a large standing army, and providing a check against an oppressive government.

The word “regulated”, as used at the time, meant simply “to make regular.” It had nothing to do with government regulations as we know them today. A current word of similar meaning is “standardize.” If the militia is standardized, the militias of the several states are trained and organized to meet a common standard of combat readiness. The Constitution in 1.8.16 calls for Congress to provide the standardized “discipline” for the state militias. At one time the Militia Act provided that common discipline, but it has long since been repealed.

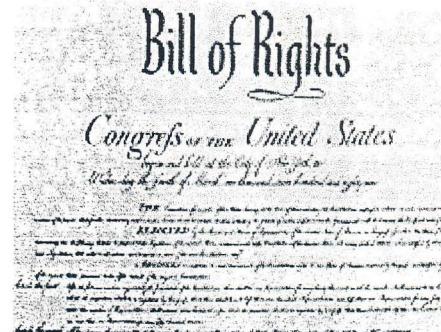

Under Article I, Section 8 of the Constitution, the federal Congress has been delegated the power "to provide for calling forth the militia to execute the laws of the union, suppress insurrections and repel invasions; to provide for organizing, arming, and disciplining, the militia, and for governing such part of them (note the use of the plural 'them', indicating an understanding that the militia is composed of the plural people) as may be employed in the service of the United States, reserving to the states respectively, the appointment of the officers, and the authority of training the militia according to the discipline prescribed by Congress."

Since the federal government has sadly neglected the training of the militia and there is currently no discipline prescribed by Congress, those functions fall back upon the ultimate authority, the people, and their agents, the state governments. The federal government is supposed to be responsible for arming the militia, but there is nothing in the above to suggest any power to limit types of militia weapons-especially since such a limitation would be in direct violation of the Second Amendment.

Modern militia units, publicly formed as are units of the Texas Constitutional Militia, are unquestionably Constitutional and lawful. Current federal law states that all males ages 17 to 45 compose the unorganized militia, but this limitation applies only when militia units are called up for federal service.

State age and gender requirements vary-Texas, for example, has no age or gender limitations for Texas militia units. Also, in Texas the power to organize and discipline the militia remains with the people since the section in the Texas Constitution delegating that authority to the Texas Legislature was rescinded by the vote of the people.

Is Third Continental Congress The Answer?

By: Richard Struthers

Second Continental Congress

Delegates from across the country have been selected during the past month to attend and represent their States at the Third Continental Congress, being held in Harrisonville, MO, Oct. 29-31 of this year.

The avowed reason for the Constitutional Congress, according to Ray Southwell, of the Northern Michigan Regional Militia, is that We The People must be prepared to establish a provisional government when the current one collapses under the weight of its own corruption.

According to the Northern MI Militia, over half the states are expected to send delegates to the Convention. There is disagreement within the patriotic ranks as to the wisdom and merit of the Constitutional Congress plan. A number of patriotic spokesmen have openly advised against holding such a Convention which openly avows to replace the sitting government. Several State Militias have ignored the Convention totally.

Patriotic opposition comes from members who are concerned the Convention will cast further bad publicity upon the movement. It's unlikely the American public will pay any attention at all to the event, except for possible reinforcement of their negative attitude towards militia groups in general.

The Convention's agenda will discuss the crises in America being caused by the present government which patriots agree is corrupt. Norm Olson, of the Northern MI Militia states the goal of the Congress is to find solutions without having to go to war; and that millions of people are being tyrannized and oppressed by the federal government. Olson also said Agents of various enforcement branches continue to rob, seize, arrest, and kill without accountability, and that there is no justice left in the corrupt courts.

Ray Southwell added that possible goals include the restoration of the Republic, Justice for All, and the formation of a Continental Army under a Congressional Committee of Safety.

It's this reference to formation of a Continental Army that has the government watching, and some patriots disagreeing. Formation of such an entity would provoke widespread objection from the American public as a whole.

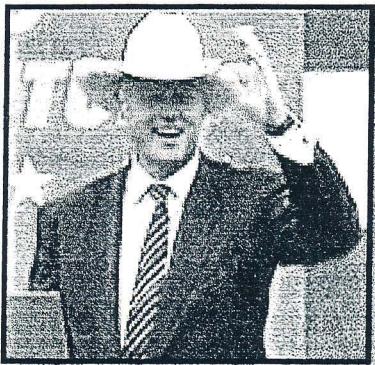

The three-day congress will include Cliff Brookins, an African-American from Detroit, Bob Davis, a common-law scholar, Freemen and others.

Establishment of a mirror-provisional government prepared to assume rule-of-law in the event of the current government's demise is merely a perfunctuary move. One has to assume any patriotic event as public as this will also consist of 25% federal infiltrates. The delegates would be well advised to be extremely careful in their discussions within the group and with one another.

Whether the Third Constitutional Congress Convention will produce enduring, positive solutions to the corrupt government at hand remains to be seen. A follow-up report will be issued in next months edition.

Forty More Reasons To Say NO To Clinton

Provided by Jeff Jacoby, Boston Globe

- A top private school for Chelsea, but no vouchers for poor kids who want the same break
- Clinton blamed radio talk-show hosts for the terrorist bombing in Oklahoma City
- VP Al Gore on Boris Yeltsin, July 16, 1996: "To me, he looks good. On every score, he was actively engaged and seemed in very good shape." In fact, Yeltsin had just suffered a heart attack and remains ill
- Ira Magaziner
- The candidate: "American politics is being held hostage by big money interests, $100,000 donors buy access to Congress and the White House." The President: Sold private White House dinners to donors who gave at least #100,000 to the Democratic Nat. Committee
- Deval Patrick, quota king
- The Clintons donate their used underwear to charity and deduct it on their tax returns
- But they never bothered to report their profits from Hillary's 1980 commodities trading-until they were exposed in 1994
- When Chicago housewife Judy Mendoza told Clinton, "You suck," he had her arrested, fingerprinted, interrogated and jailed

- Supreme Court Justice John Paul Stevens is 77 years old
- A historic first: The first lady is called before a grand jury
- Another historic first: White House reporters ask if the president has a sexually transmitted disease
- Why won't he release his medical records
- Number of White House aides with a history of serious drug abuse, according to the Secret Service: more than 40
- Cuba blows four unarmed Americans out of the sky, killing them in cold blood-and Clinton does nothing to punish Fidel Castro

- Doesn't do anything when Capt. Scott O'Grady is blown out of the sky by Bosnian Serbs
- Or when five Americans in Saudi Arabia are killed by a car bomb, or when 19 more Americans are killed by a second bomb
- Does, however, shut down Pennsylvania Avenue
- Shameless exploitation: "I have vivid and painful memories of black churches being burned in my own state when I was a child." No black churches were burned in Arkansas when Clinton was a child
- Shameless Exploitation: Christopher Reeve in a wheelchair
- Shameless exploitation: Vote for Al Gore because his sister died of lung cancer
- "Throughout most of my life, I raised tobacco. I want you to know that with my own hands, all of my life, I put it in the plant beds and transferred it. I've hoed it. I've chopped it. I've shredded it, spiked it..sold it - Al Gore, campaigning in North Carolina in 1988

- Normalized relations with Vietnam, one of the planet's nastiest dictatorships
- In a "complete honest bureaucratic snafu," Clinton aides rifled the private FBI files of more than 900 Republican opponents
- Triangulation
- The huge 1993 Clinton tax increase hiked taxes retroactively
- The candidate: "Serbian aggression against Bosnia must end. It is time for America to exert strong leadership in putting a halt to the Serbian-led aggression." The president: "Let me tell you something about Bosnia. The UN controls what happens in Bosnia
- Missing files. Shredded files. Stonewalled files. Carted-out-of-Fosters-office-in-the-dead-of-the-night-files

- Turned a blind eye to the Russian slaughter in Chechnya
- Defamed Special Prosecutor Ken Starr
- In 50 years, he's never had a private sector job. It's time
- "If I were a single man, I might ask that mummy out. That's a good looking mummy. Clinton, on a 500-year-old Peruvian corpse.
- Innocent Travel Office staffers were fired on Hillary's orders
- "I am the only president who knew something about agriculture when I got to the White House. And to hell with Presidents Carter, Truman, Jefferson and Washington

- Even third world dictators laugh at Christopher

- Vetoed the bipartisan bill to ban late-term, partial-birth abortions, which Daniel Patrick Moynihan calls "close to infanticide."
- They don't call him 'Slick Willie' for nothing
- He wants more money for the National Endowment for the Arts
- National debt, 1992: 4 trillion. 1996: 5.2 trillion. Clinton increase: 30%. The era of big government moves on

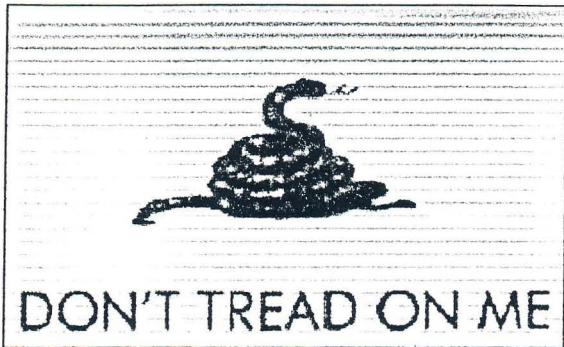

The Drug House

Mr. Jacoby has listed 80 reason the past two months on why to say no to Clinton, but, most of the reasons are superficial and miss the point.

The Clinton administration is the most money-corrupted, drug-laden gang of thieves to ever occupy The Drug House.

Straight From Gadsden

By: Mike Kemp
Gadsden Minute Man

Mike Kemp forwarded and heartily endorses the following proposal by Neil Smith:

The Twenty-Ninth Amendment

Introduction: Given the known hostility of the current administration to the Bill of Rights—especially the Second Amendment—the priority American forces are assigning to the house-to-house disarmament of Haitian civilians, and the feeble excuses offered for it in the media; it should be clear by now that this operation, like the one in Somalia, is designed to train our troops to do the same thing here in the States.

Section I: It is forbidden under any circumstances for any American military or police force to deny—or to be ordered to deny—any American the free exercise of any right protected by the first ten Amendments to the United States Constitution

Section II: In the absence of a formal declaration of war it is likewise forbidden for any American military or police force to deny—or to be ordered to deny—foreign nationals in their own territories the free exercise of any right protected by the first ten Amendments to the United States Constitution

Section III: No claim of emergency, nor the age or condition of any person, is sufficient grounds for violating or evading the provisions or intentions of this Amendment

Section IV: Any elected or appointed official at any level of government who violates or evades the provisions or intentions of this Amendment is subject to imprisonment and fine for each violation; should a death occur as a result of said violation the official in question shall be subject to the death penalty

From Mike Kemp

Yesterday I went to court for a date to be set for my trial on charges of possession of hemp. When my name was called I reported that I had entered no plea, and this put hizzoner's nose right out of joint.

After the public session, hizzoner had all the attorneys of the various cases on the docket into his office for a little scheduling and let's make a deal-ing. After all was hashed out, hizzoner and the DA called me in. Hizzoner was angry and nervous, the DA tentative and blatantly friendly (I graduated from high school with him)

The judge read from the *record, and I pointed out that the record bore no resemblance to the actual proceedings, which I conveniently had on tape. He asked if I intended this to drag out forever, and I told him that this was their show, not mine, and the last I had heard from them was that the judge to which the case was previously assigned had recused himself-nine months ago.

In discussions with hizzoner, he agreed the court would entertain motions concerning the Constitutionality of the statute under which I am charged, and would hear a motion to suppress the evidence on the basis of a faulty warrant which was obtained After my home was searched.

As the discussion progressed hizzoner became more agitated. He was incensed when I informed him not only did I not want a lawyer, I believed that the very worst thing I could do would be have an officer of the court protect my rights.

Hizzoner then made a profound error-he belligerently stated there Would be a trial on Nov. 4, whereupon I gently asked if that meant that he had already made up his mind concerning the motions which he had not yet heard. That twisted the head completely off his bolt, and nothing more was heard from hizzoner.

The DA made a pitch for a deal: Any time you want to settle this, just let me know, he magnanimously offered. Sure, said I, Drop all prosecution and return all my property, and I won't sue you. Uhh, hem, haw, I can't do that, he said. Fine, sez I, I guess I'll see you in court.

Along the way the DA expressed complete disinterest in my firearms and other items which were seized without being mentioned on the arrant. He said I should just pick them up from the sheriff.

Oh Yeah, it was reliably reported that there were federal eavesdroppers hidden from view, covertly monitoring the above-described performance in hizzoner's chambers. They were observed leaving by an observer friendly to the Constitution. I wonder what interest the feds have in a piddling state charge?

CLINTON-GORE ELECTORAL PROJECTION

Presidential Electoral Review

by: Michael Devlin

The Presidential election of 1996 has long been over; with the popular vote count being a mere formality necessary to appease those 50% of Americans who still participate in the fraudulent practice.

The Electoral College, where the action and decision making really rests, has been settled since January of this year.

We calculate an Electoral landslide, possibly equaling Ronald Reagans 1984 victory over Walter Mondale.

Bob Dole, who never seems to go away, has led the recently popular Republican Party down the road of elective disaster. Dole is not solely responsible for the unfolding GOP tragedy however. Old-time Republican insiders, warned of Dole's vulnerabilities by Pat Buchanan's primary popularity, choose to rig the system, and proceed with their Good Old Boy anyway.

The Republicans are getting exactly what they deserve; a trashing of old-guard Republicans, which may lead the way to a future encompassing new, constitutionally oriented candidates.

Never seems to go away

World Colony News' assessment of the Electoral College indicates Dole may be viable, and only capture the States of Kansas, Idaho, Utah, S. Carolina, Alaska and Wyoming.

Dole's disastrous Presidential bid will probably cost the GOP long-time Republican states such as Florida, Texas, Georgia, Virginia, Arizona, and Montana. Republican leaning states such as Ohio, Michigan and Pennsylvania, and New Jersey are long lost. Even Indiana, a usual sure bet, will be close.

Based upon the Electoral map displayed, Dole could receive as few as 35 Electoral votes, winning possibly 7 states; all low in Electoral votes.

Enhancing the upcoming disaster for the Republican Party is the very real possibility of Congressional candidates being swept aside during the Clinton landslide. A new Democratic House and Senate now appears to be extremely likely; giving Clinton free reign to advance the Democratic social agenda they have long-longed for.

What's perplexing about this situation is the Non-support Republicans have received from the patriotic and independent communities. Considering the alternative to Dole is Clinton, the most morally destructive occupant of the Drug-House in history; it behooves me how patriots and independents can be smug and satisfied over the certain outcome of their non-participant attitude.

While it's certainty true Dole is also a World Colonist; the Republican agenda is nowhere near as dangerous to the patriotic community as Clinton's will prove to be. For sure, the patriotic community, Populists, independents, and reformers will be impacted swiftly and with dispatch.

Clinton realizes the divisions within the Republican Party; their loss of populist, independents, reformers and the patriotic community. In fact, he has exploited this very division. Its now too late to forge alliances among these groups for the purpose of stopping Clinton; the damage is already done.

The facts are these: By themselves Libertarians, Populists, Reformers and Republicans stand no chance whatsoever of capturing control of the White House; thereby the government. Only through coalition developed with common cause can King Bill I be stopped. We suggest these groups wake up to reality or face Colonization.

What Is The Republic Of Texas?

By: George Novak

There has been much speculation about developments in Texas; particularly concerning the establishment of The Constitutional Republic of Texas. Hopefully, information supplied by the Republic's founders will provide instructive for citizens throughout the nation.

According to the introduction to their Preamble, The Republic of Texas has been lawfully reestablished as a free and independent nation under the law of nations. Proper lawful process has been completed and the United States, United Nations, and all the nations of the world have been notified.

John C. VanKirk, President, Republic of Texas, provided the world a formal announcement on Jan. 10, 1996. Following is content of that announcement:

From: The Provisional Government of the Republic of Texas ex rel the People of the Republic of Texas.

On April 12, 1994, a legal process was commenced by citizens of Jeff Davis county in Texas to perfect regaining the sovereignty of the Soil of Texas in accordance with the law of nations finalized on Jan. 2, 1996, Texas Supreme Court case #95-1002 on Nov. 16, 1995, by the People on Dec. 13, 1995, and finally in the International Court of Justice Docket #94135. This has now lawfully vested the government of Texas back in the hands of the People of Texas as a Republic Nation as established by its founders on Nov. 13, 1835.

How a Republic was Reborn

Through diligent research, a para-legal in Fort Davis, TX, discovered that the State of Texas had not been properly annexed into the union of States.

Richard McLaren, working on freeing the Davis County Land Commission of the grasp of the EPA, discovered that Texas was not lawfully annexed or inducted into the United States. Through a Joint Resolution the Legislature of 1845 annexed the State without the requisite number of votes. Through this action the Republic of Texas was set aside and became the State of Texas.

At this time the Republic of Texas was a sovereign nation completely separated from the United States. There was no provision in the Constitution of the United States, nor in the laws of the United States to annex a foreign nation into the Union.

To accomplish this, the legislature of the United States made a Joint Resolution to accept the State of Texas into the Union. Although there was not a quorum to vote on the matter, it was accepted. Through chicanery and deceit the Republic was set aside but through the diligence in research of one man, the Republic is reborn.

We have done all the legal footwork to accomplish the rebirth of the Republic. The State of Texas Supreme Court has ruled that it has no jurisdiction in the matter, the State Department of the United States has declared that it is an internal matter, so we took the problem to the International Court in Hague, Netherlands.

There has been a Provisional Government elected, from the delegates to the Constitution Convention, to provide the required governing body for the Republic. This Provisional Government will be in place only as long as it takes to bring about the transition from the State of Texas to the Republic of Texas.

Citizenship in Republic of Texas

Who may be a Citizen?

Everyone who has been living on the soil in Texas for at least six months. This requirement is specified in the Constitution for the Republic of Texas of 1836.

What does it mean to be a citizen?

Citizenship means you give true allegiance to the Republic of Texas. This means you will support the Republic and the Constitution of the Republic. It also means that you will not bear allegiance to any foreign nation or government.

Why should I become a Citizen?

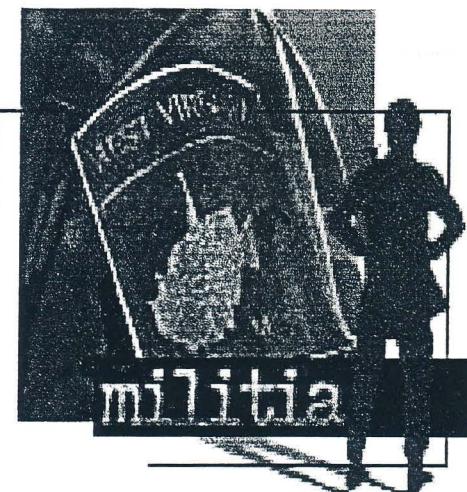

As a Citizen, you are free to act as you see fit, to provide for yourself, your family, and your children. The government of the Republic of Texas will not tell you what kind of medical care you can receive, what your children will learn at school, or how much money you can keep this year. You do not need the governments permission to start your own business, work, or travel. You are the only person who can make the best choices for your life, and those choices are yours.

Becoming a Citizen of the Republic vests you with all the rights and freedoms of Citizenship, as well as placing you under the jurisdiction of the Common Law. You will then experience liberty and freedom, rather than a life filled with oppression, regulation, and governmental red tape.

We hope this explains citizenship in the Republic.

America's Perception Of Militias

By: Patrick Dublin

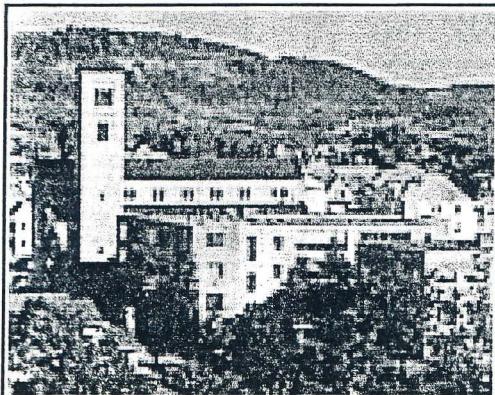

West Virginia Militia Insignia

The government has the Militia on the run. No, not with armored vehicles chasing Constitutional brigades through the high forests of the Northwest, or the swamps of Dixie, or the mesa's of the Southwest, not even the urban sprawl of the Northeast; but with a media public relations bombardment successfully painting militias as anti-American extremist and terrorist.

It's ironic how pro-constitutional, pro-patriotic, pro-American militia members have become targeted by an anti-patriotic government. It's even more ironic how militia's, proclaiming to be the defenders of the constitution and America; have placed themselves in the position of having to defend charges and perceptions of anti-Americanism.

Lets look at some recent events across the country which, we feel, have fostered the public's negative attitude towards patriots; and have enhanced the governments deliberate portrayal of militias as dangerous to the mainstream principles of most Americans.

Headline: FBI arrests 5 in W.VA. militia bomb plot

Clarksburg, W. VA.

The FBI arrested five members of the West Virginia Mountain Militia on charges they conspired to aid in blowing up the FBI Fingerprint complex located in Clarksburg.

The leader of the militia, Ray Looker, was recorded offering blueprints to the building in return for $50,000. The money supplier and receiver of the blueprints supposedly was a International Terrorist organization.

Ray Looker

While Looker, and the other men arrested, charged the government with entrapment, (and no doubt there was) the FBI revealed during arraignment they had successfully infiltrated the group for several months.

Clarksburg rest in a scenic setting an hour south of Morgantown, an hour north of Buchanan, and two hours north of Charleston. Senator Byrd has managed to locate several federal facilities in the area, creating a mini-boom in employment and housing.

The other men arrested were James Rogers, Edward Moore, Jack Phillips, Terrell Coon, James Johnson and Imam Lewis.

Edward Moore

How this event relates to the public relations problems militias are encountering is the ease which with the Feds were able to infiltrate the group, and a meeting held on June 4, 1995, during which Looker identified the FBI facility, along with others, as targets for militia attention.

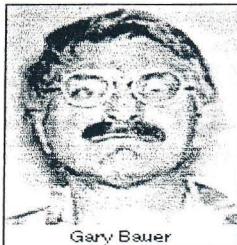

Really, why not just hang a flag out announcing your intentions to dismantle governmental buildings? This is the point; it's pretty convincing to the American public these kind of plans, whether through entrapment or not - are not something to be tolerated.

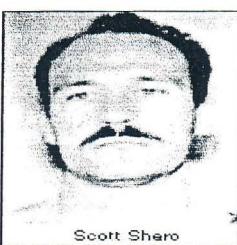

Unidentified militia infiltrator

The plea of entrapment holds no water. If someone, anyone, approaches me or you with an offer involving explosives of any kind - I, and you need not to walk, but to run away from that person as fast as possible. Absolutely no participation in this sort of scheme is the answer.

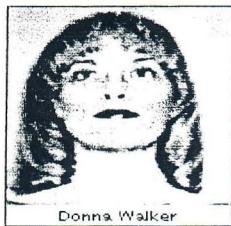

Headline: Vipers charged with explosives

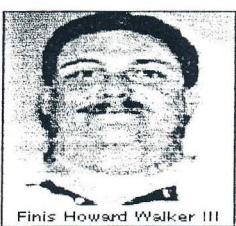

Gary Bauer

Scott Shero

Donna Walker

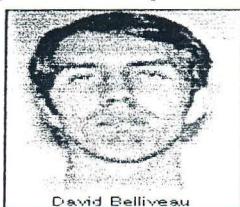

Finis Howard Walker III

Arizona provided the fodder last summer of 12 militia members being arrested for conspiracy and explosives charges. Although the conspiracy charges have since been dropped by the government, they are still charged with weapons and explosives charges.

Ellen Belliveau

David Belliveau

The exact charges may not be as important to the American Public as the Perception of a group of militia men and women detonating explosives, even if in the dessert.

Christopher Floyd

Charles Franklin Knight

Once again, this group was infiltrated by the Feds; leading most fellow countrymen to believe the FBI is acting with vigilance, not entrapping innocent civilians.

Henry Overturf

Dean Pleasant

The governments efforts to label all militias and patriotic organizations as dangerous extremist interested in obtaining and utilizing explosives to further their agenda is becoming reality.

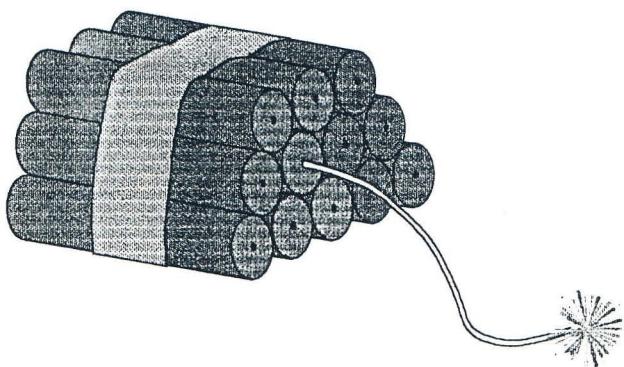

Recently, we printed, on our Saturday weekly E-News over the Internet, an essay on the stupidity of militia organizations even considering any kind of affiliation with explosives; mentioning we were not interested in America becoming akin to England and Northern Ireland, where a trip to the supermarket by the wife and kids results in their death or disfigurement due to a random bomb being set-off.

We also mentioned the patriotic movement must be smart - as smart as the media and government; something they surely have not been up to now.

We stated a patriotic must have courage, and brains. We used the metaphor of Lexington, where 70 brave patriots disagreed with - and stood their ground, against 700 British Troops. If Patriotic organizations or militias find themselves in such disagreement with the tyranny of this government; then taking the stand their brothers did at Lexington is understandable. What is not understandable is the fear of American citizens being subject to random explosive and pipe-bomb attacks.

The response to this Colony E-News article was surprising; and immensely favorable. Literally hundreds of folks across the country responded, many of them patriotic leaders themselves.

The condemnation of militias and like organizations being involved with explosives was universal. Most militia leaders we spoke with realize the public relations damage they are incurring due to these isolated - yet highly visible episodes.

Many state militias utilize the local political system, enacting change from a local level.

Others put out much information, using an educational approach to changing perceptions. Still others engage in neighborhood and civic projects. These organizations present positive images and offer thoughtful solutions.

The Central Michigan Militia and New Jersey Militias are both heavily involved in grassroots politics; effecting change from bottom up. Most all militias, contrary to media stereotype, are pro-inclusive, their members consisting of all races, religions, and genders.

Less numerous, but more visible groups such as the Phineas Priesthood, Aryan Nation and the White Socialist Party are being linked to state militias, although there are huge differences between the two. One militia leader we spoke with very recently said he had no, nor wanted no, affiliation with either White Supremacist groups, or anyone interested in bomb making.

One reason the government has been able to successfully target, entrap, and publicize the militia's involvement in explosives and other actions; is the intense infiltration methods employed by the FBI, and the ATF.

Given the Militia movement must be aware of Federal insertion methods; one might think it would be impossible to uncover wrongdoing within any of the organizations. Not so. And we can't understand it.

Note: We asked Ken to report on the BO Gritz SPIKE AIRBORNE class he attended recently.

We thank him for the fine article below.

Michael Devlin, Publisher

On September 20, 21, and 22, Marion County Airport, Jasper TN, was the sight of Bo Gritz' SPIKE AIRBORNE class, of which I had the pleasure of attending. I arrived mid-day on the 19th, signed in, and met Bo and family, who were pretty busy preparing for the event.

Friday, Sept 20 at 0700 hrs. EST, we gathered at the field for orientation. We were welcomed by Bo and Claudia Gritz, and Leon Riche, our Chief Jumpmaster and Principal Airborne Instructor. It was still dark and cold, most of us seemed to be freezing and praying for the sun to come up, which thawed us out and provided a great day for us.

After orientation and the review of our procedure agreements, we divided into Red and Blue Teams to help keep things flowing in rotation. Classes were divided into Jump Operations and Flight Operations, at which time we split up to go to our assigned areas.

My team started the day in Parachute Ground School, where we were each individually instructed in jump procedures. Our instructors were all excellent, and gave as much time as needed for anyone not comfortable with any of the instructions. There was plenty of time for practice, being we only had two planes going up at a time, each with 2 or 3 jumpers. Those waiting to jump were instructed on packing square personnel canopies for the next jumpers. Of course, they held our hands all the way through this, and the back-up chute was packed by our Jumpmaster only. All the chutes opened, so we couldn't have done too bad.

Jumps were at 3500 feet, with a static line. Some of us, including me, jumped as a storm front was moving in. Sure, it was nice and calm at ground level, but get up about 3500 feet and man was it getting breezy!! After our chutes opened it was a real battle to make it to the landing zone, and a few of us never made it there. Some landed in neighbors yards, some in cow fields, one in the trees, another in the parking lot, etc. Fortunately I won my battle with the wind and returned safely to the airfield.

There were a few casualties, none fatal, mostly resulting from improper landing procedures. A few broken bones here and there but nothing life threatening. The air is very unforgiving. If you didn't pay attention and missed something in training, you will learn the hard way soon enough. This was one course you couldn't afford to day dream through.

At night we set up a tactical landing zone, which was done by shutting power off at the airport. We assumed our positions on the airfield, and in total darkness, except for our modified flash lights, landed a plane onto the runway, delivered a package, and then sent it on its way. A big hand goes out to Bo, who is probably the only one crazy enough to fly a plane onto a dark LZ with us clowns guiding him. The fog was super heavy, and Bo's night vision goggles just weren't doing the trick that night, so we called off a little earlier than we wanted.

Jumping was the highlight of the course, but there was much more. Each student learned to make and pack field expedient chutes; survey, report, determine a release point, and mark a drop zone. We conducted equipment drops and were taught to rig and execute an aircraft message pick-up. Everyone, with assistance, took-off and landed fixed wing aircraft. For extra entertainment there was a Hand Glider Trainer and bungee-jump.

Overall, I would say Bo and company did an excellent job setting up this course. There was some confusion at times about just which class to be in a what time, but knowing the very short time they had in preparing for this event, it was done extremely well. Everyone had a great time and I'm looking forward to the next SPECIAL SPIKES.

Concerning the supposedly problems with the senior citizen's incomes, page 5, by Marge Zinther, the simple answer is found on page 14, of this same issue by Patrick Dublin.

If we continue to pay our unconstitutional income tax, elect left leaning, socialistic communists to office, and continue to believe what they tell us, it will continue to become progressively worse.

Please note that the Feds not only tax tobacco, they subsidize its growth and processing to a larger degree than any other farm crops. This is due not only to the large amount of campaign bribery but, also the pork to the states involved.

The Republicans are currently reaping the most from this evil source of revenue. I personally advocate the legalization of most drugs at least at the Federal level, giving the States and their voters the choice locally.

This also shoots testing for past drug use in the foot, as "where were you when you took it?" comes into play. This boogers up an intrusive employer strategy to weed out employees they may disagree with on other issues, etc. Your free thinking reader, Steve

Sir, we are not sure whether this editorial comment was directed at our organization or not. If it was would you please provide us with an explanation as to the context and meaning with which we are to perceive this comment.

Also, as we are not a PAC, political party, etc. we would request input from you as to the type of action you believe we should commence to stifle a citizen of our state from running for public office. Is it not his Constitutional right to run for public office? Your comment appears to draw the conclusion that the militia of Montana should have somehow ensured that Mr. Yellowtail could not have run for public office within our state. If this is a correct assumption of your comment we would like an explanation as to just how this was to occur—again keeping in mind that we are not a PAC.

Please provide us with answers to the above questions at your earliest convenience.
(Editors Note: We replied to Randy Trochmann we have had a beneficial relationship with his father for some time, and the comment was done tongue-in-cheek. We do suggest the militia of Montana lighten up! And then utilize their members to canvass door-to-door, informing the state's residents of the World Colony environmental record of Mr. Yellowtail.

Being a vet from WWII and the Korean Police Action, I just can't understand the mentality of the people electing something like that. Your right on the money about explosives. Now what do you think of patriots and militia holding a Third Continental Congress to appoint themselves to be the Provisional Republican Government of the United States?

We now know what explosives do for our image. How about proclaiming ourselves to be the government, without regard to such things as government by the consent of the governed? How do you think the public will take to that?

I do thank you, seriously. We're just trying to piece together what is going on. The most relevant thing I've noticed is that the FBI's informant just happened to be the one who had all the explosives. Isn't that strange.

Views From The Satellite Colonies

Clinton's fortunes seem pretty bright the next four years -if- Democrats regain control of Congress, thereby squashing any further Arkansas-Washington criminal investigations. But, should Republicans retain control of Congress - Clinton will never see 1998 in office. Independent Prosecutor Starr and the Republicans are sure to nail Hillary first on perjury and obstruction charges, then offer her cohorts immunity-forcing Clinton to issue Presidential Pardons for all involved; sparking a Constitutional uproar throughout the land.

Speaking of a Republican Congress; all Populist, Patriots, and independents would be well advised to hold their noses and vote the Republican ticket en-masse. Forget about the 2% Parties. The gravest danger to this country is Bill Clinton, period. Patriots must do whatever is necessary to ensure the un-election of Clinton; even if it means settling on Dole for now. Our warning to you: Don't gripe in 1997 when the Clinton Socialist hammer comes down. Remember; while you were busy casting a statement vote in 1996 - Clinton is busy preparing retribution on you all. Libertarians, Reformers etc. aren't going to achieve a damn thing. Best to work with what you got.

According to CIA director John Deutch, the danger of computer-based cyber attacks is second only to that posed by nuclear arms and other weapons of mass destruction; and expects the threat to grow over the next decade. International terrorism experts say there's so much screwball stuff on the Internet, it's impossible to isolate dangerous terrorists. Adding: No government can analyze millions and millions of messages.

Oct. 15, is the trial date set for GA. Militia leader Bob Starr, James McCranie and Troy Spain. The three are charged with conspiring to use explosives in a crime of violence and lesser charges. The militia leaders claim government informants placed the pipe-bomb material on their property (which the government admits it did) and was thereby entrapped. The government contends the Georgia Militia was arming itself for war with the US government. This is yet another case of government infiltrators egging on militia members to play with fire, meaning explosives; then being charged with the act. We reiterate; smarten-up, tell anyone mentioning explosives to take a hike.

Last month we mentioned the Spotlight's policy of attempting to distinguish the light of Alternative Opinion in this country. We were not blowing smoke. In the Oct. 14, issue, the Spotlight used a front page supplement in an attempt to obliterate All competing voices of the Alternate Press. Spotlight diminished the values of 12 Alternative Press publication nationally; including Media Bypass, Criminal Politics, Human Events, National Educator and others. Is this how Free Alternative Press is supposed to look at other voices in the field? It appears to us the Spotlight has become controlled by a greedy mob of self interested Our Opinion Only - We Will Control The Press advocates. Caution: Beware of replacing those in power with something that can be far worse. We see no difference between Spotlight's Our One Word Only Policy and the communist versions of Tass and Pravada. Incidentally; We Support ALL voices of the Free Alternative Press. Maybe their price increase from $39 a year to $59 a year for a subscription has gone to their head. Maybe they have been sucking on the Hemp weed too long. We stand by our recommendations of Criminal Politics and the Free American as two of the best sources for Alternative Press coverage. (besides our own, naturally)

Patriot Bo Gritz was arrested in Suffield, Conn. And charged with attempting to kidnap two boys involved in a custody dispute. Gritz said the mother, Linda Wiegand, asked him for assistance and feared for the safety of her sons.

JFK Senior

JFK Jr., that icon of passion towards the downtrodden, poor and minorities, disclosed a financial settlement with his new wife in the case of divorce. Mrs. JFK Jr. Would receive $1 million if she remains married for 1-3 years. $2 million if married for 3-10 years, and $3 million if married over 10 years. We must be old fashioned as we actually thought people got married for better or worse. And what God brought together, let no man put asunder.

Wonder how many poor people could be fed by Mrs. JFK's settlement. The notion of preparing for divorce at the time of marriage is as loony as; well, come to think of it - just look at the Kennedy's marital history. The Kennedy legacy is one of rum-runners, rapist, murderers, alcoholics and more; and they are revered as America's good citizens by the voters of Mass. And Democrats alike.

We mentioned the overwhelmingly favorable response to the weekly Colony E-News pertaining to militias and explosives; however, there was one negative reply. Patriotic spokeswoman Linda Thompson requested we not send anymore essays of this nature. We can only ascertain Ms. Thompson prefers patriots running around with explosives, thereby causing irreparable harm to the good-intentioned patriots wishing to expose and reform the corrupt system we live under. We won't change our stance and can't please everyone; but, would you want to live in a country where bombs are being set off amongst the civilian population. These are the leaders who wish to accept rule from the present government? Do we look stupid? For those patriots who get their kicks out of bombs-just go away.

Rush Limbaugh's audience is diminishing at a rapid pace, as we pointed out before. An indication of this, is Clinton's large poll lead over Bob Dole. Rush has been castigating Clinton, on-air, for four years now. The result: Clinton re-election will be of landslide proportions. Now tell us anyone is listening to, or pays attention to, what the fat Republican mouthpiece has to say.

From The Roundtable

By: Mike Rowley, Erie, PA.

European Power Net

It has come to the attention of the ROUNDTABLE that there has been a sister organization to the Bilderbergers, that until now remained in the shadows. Known to the insiders as Le Cercle; the founder of this globalist group was Antoine Pinay, a former Premier of France in the early 1950's. Pinay was in attendance at the inaugural Bilderberger conclave.

By 1970 Le Cercle had forged close ties with the French intelligence service SDECE, and the Nixon administration. The purpose that they had laid down for themselves was to undermine what was left of the West European Right. Their methods being infiltration and betrayal of conservative Parties and intelligence agencies to the Soviets; always taking care not to leave any obvious trail back to themselves.

Le Cercle also maintains a strong relationship to the CIA, and the American military establishment. In 1975, the Le Cercle was under the leadership of CIA official Brian Crozier. Mr. Crozier, in print, has repeatedly boasted of his links to the Reagan White House. In his autobiography he tells of his many visits to Washington to meet with senior Reagan advisors.

In 1980 Mr. Crozier met with Reagan himself to brief him on his network, and to offer his services. Later on, the CIA would, under the direction of Bill Casey, assign a liaison to the Le Cercle. Be aware that this sinister group maintains associations with such American organization as The Institute for the Study of Conflict, and the Heritage Foundation, to name a few. These organizations are generally thought of to be conservative and pro-American.

This would lead us to conclude that certain groups and mainline publications, so called conservative, have been co-opted by our enemies. Enemies who are well financed and connected to other very powerful circles of power, such as the Council of Foreign Relations, the Royal Institute for International Affairs, and the Trilateral Commission. To understand what is going on in the New World Colony, we have to understand the intrigues of the Old World.

Intelligence Update

The German delegate to the joint UN/WHO codex alimentarius Commission has made the proposal that consumer access to vitamins be limited to the RDA dosage as maximum limit. This means that you, the consumer, would only be able to obtain Vitamin C at 60mg., and Vitamin E at 15mg. The World Trade Organization will vote on this proposal sometime in the month of October. If the WTO has it's way, we will see the health food industry annexed by the large drug companies.

The WTO is forcing the US to make changes in the Clean Air Act. The WTO ruled on an appeal that the US regulations discriminate against gasoline imports from Venezuela and Brazil. The New World Colony is already telling you how to live. What outrage is next? When, as Americans do we get mad? When, as Americans do we react? When, as Americans do we begin to fight back? When do we stand up as one, as Free Americans and say no longer will we live like sheep? When will we say now is the time. Enough is enough!

Next month the New American Roundtable will continue to expose the European wing of the New World Colony. For several centuries, men and women have left the Old World for the promise of the New World; leaving behind the corruption and decay. Well, the corruption and the decay still exist. Having fed on Europe, it has caught it's second wind. It stands ready to devour the world if we allow it to happen.

A comment from The New American Roundtable

Do Americans have the will to survive the coming storm? If we do, we haven't shown it. Do Americans have the will to survive total war on ourselves? If we do, we haven't shown it yet.

Do Americans know the price they will have to pay for not having the stomach to resist dictatorship? If we do, we haven't shown it yet. Do Americans know that the rules will not apply any more for either side in this conflict? Time will tell.

Europe and Asia have shown to the world they lack the will to survive as free people? Will we too live on our knees? Time will tell.

Patriotic Prose
Edward Rohmann

Once we had a republic true
And sometimes we call it democracy too
It was governed by departments three
In order to keep us forever free.

Our Constitution and Bill of Rights
Protected us from internal fights
And for the first time in all of history
People governed themselves and were truly free.

We elected men of high repute
To represent our wishes and to dispute
With each other ideas that would be
The foundation of a better society.

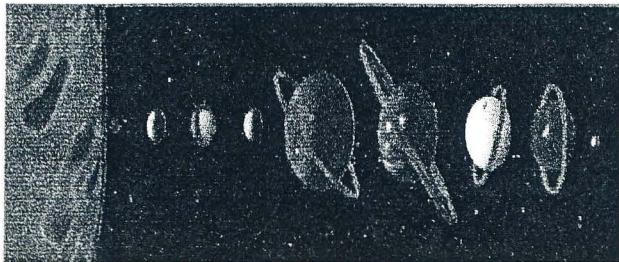

They were farmers, lawyers, and merchants, all men
Dedicated to serve, but not over and over again
They wanted to give, and were not there to take
A better country they wanted to make.

Some subtle changes have come with the years
That begin to awaken our dawning fears
We question improvements that have been made
And with our new wisdom our freedoms fade.

We elect men and women to do what is best
For our country, the state and the rest
But when the final verdict is in
It's always the special interests that win

What is needed to wake up the people
A town crier from every church steeple?
What kind of catastrophe will it take
To motivate people the changes to make?

World Colony News

Introduction by: Michael Devlin
World News provided by: Colony Staff

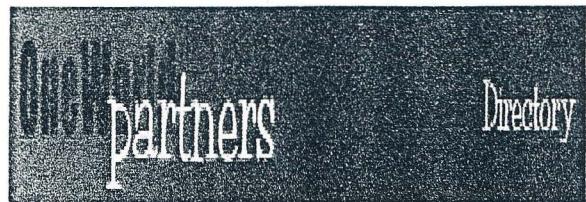

We welcome you to further expansion of Colony News to World Colony News. Since the colonization of earth's peoples under the auspices of the United Nations are not confined to America alone; indeed, globalization is affecting all regions and peoples of the world; we present World news in order to hopefully enlighten our readers as to meaningful events from other lands.

Our subscribers now reach us from Central America, Australia, South Africa and England, as well as all 50 states.

We find Patriots throughout the world. Each just as opposed to World Colonization as our patriots in the US. Many other countries have already been subject to the transformation from freedom and independence to socialism. Many of the patriots remaining in these countries are praying hard for Americans to halt the tide.

These patriots, well aware of our fiercely independent, rebellious history; believe only patriotic Americans, born in the mold of Washington, Jefferson and Madison, have the spirit, courage and fortitude to destroy the plans of the New World Colonist.

We believe these patriots are right! And hope, through communications, to foster a worldwide patriotic network worthy of the task.

News From Europe

England

WWII Propagandist

Official papers released recently, but originally intended to be kept secret for 75 years, showed P. G. Wodehouse, the comic who broadcast German propaganda during WWII, was intentionally hidden from the British public because government officials thought his return to Britain would be embarrassing. Wodehouse was adamant he had not made the broadcast in exchange for freedom. Wodehouse settled in America and became a citizen in 1955. Many Britain's believe he should have been tried for treason.

Labour Party supports EMU

Labour Party spokesman Robin Cook reaffirmed a new Labour government would support Britain's entrance into the EMU. Cook also said if unemployment would benefit, he supports a European single-currency. A Labour government also supports the EU's social protocol on workers' rights.

Britain cannot face the challenge of the modern world through the tunnel vision of the narrow nationalism of today's Tory Party, Cook said.

Cook also said: Once a nation is persuaded that foreigners abroad are a threat, then its only a short stop to believing minorities at home are a danger. The Labour Party is expected to capture Parliament in Britain's upcoming elections.

Israeli Embassy Bombing

A jury of four people were selected in the trial of 1993, and 1995 bomb attacks on the Israeli Embassy and a philanthropic institute in London.

The trial involves 2 car bombs allegedly planted by 2 men and 2 women of Palestinian origin. They are charged with conspiring to cause explosions. The jurors were instructed by Judge Garland to avoid discussions about the Middle East conflict during the trial.

Britain Prepares to Ban Handguns

Home Secretary Michael Howard said Britain will introduce legislation to ban all handguns in the country. .22 cal. handguns, while still allowed under the legislation, would have to be kept at licensed gun clubs.

Howard told the House of Commons Britain will now have the toughest gun control laws in the world. (what would you expect from this nation of wimps, whose last vestige of power over the past 20 years has been fighting Argentina and killing the Irish people)

Britain-Cuba join together to fight drugs

Britain and Cuba signed a joint accord for the purpose of combating drug-trafficking. Deputy Minister Thomas Sackville said The commitment of Cuba in the fight against drugs is absolute. The mutual information has led to some very significant arrests.

Meanwhile, the US continues its stupid policy of castigating Fidel; while drug traffic originating from the Caribbean escalates.

Britain has seized 440 pounds of drugs this year due to shared Cuban information. Oliveira Montalvo, head of Cuba's anti-drug department said 2.75 tons of drugs, mostly cocaine, have been seized during 1996, compared with just 22 pounds in 1995. He attributes the increase to British intelligence.

Montalvo said Cuba was eager to cooperate with other countries in combating drug smuggling, and reiterated Cuba's view that cooperation could extend to the US if Washington wanted.

Naturally, Washington is too busy kissing ass to a handful of Cuban refugees in Miami, for political reasons, to bother with the nation's real problem; illegal drug trade. Our suggestion make peace with Fidel, and send the Cubans home.

Germany

East German Stasi secrets revealed

Victims of East Germany's secret police, Stasi have produced a 500 page dictionary with 855 special terms, enabling volumes of Stasi files to be decoded.

The Stasi, used euphemisms to characterize all their thoughts and words. The Stasi jargon was so secretive and specialized the files are useless without the translation. According to Stasi files, they built up an astonishing widespread network of informants-estimated at 400,000 in a population of 16 million.

Zionist organizations are described as reactionary, nationalistic, racist, counter-revolutionary, anti-socialist and anti-Soviet political groups which support the foundation of the Zionist ideology like chauvinism, racism and expansionism.

Church of Scientology watched

The German government is keeping a close watch on the Church of Scientology's actions here. The Group has accused the German Government of conducting a witch hunt against it. Family and Youth Affairs Minister Claudia Nolte has accused the Group of indoctrinating youth and masquerading as a church while being driven largely by economic motives.

The government urged Germans to boycott the Movie Mission Impossible because its star, Tom Cruise, is a member of the Church.

The religion, founded in 1954 by the late American science fiction novelist L. Ron Hubbard, claims more than 8 million adherents worldwide. High profile members Cruise's wife, Nicole Kidman, and Hollywood star John Travolta. Church of Scientology President Reverend Heber Jentzsch urged his members to rally, and refused to back off.

Banned Party allowed to rally

The far-right National Party of Germany (NPD) will be permitted to hold a rally in Bonn, despite police objections, on the country's national Unity Day holiday, a court ruled. An administrative court in Cologne, which has jurisdiction over nearby Bonn, lifted a ban that Bonn police had imposed on the small party whose German name-National-demokratis Partei Deutschlands-is similar to that of the outlawed Nazi Party.

Police wanted to ban the rally, to be held in Bonn's town centre, on grounds that it would present a danger to public safety. They Said the event might become violent because far-left groups could try to interrupt it. The court said police did not present sufficient evidence the rally would present a danger.

European Union marches on

Germany and France are making progress towards narrowing their differences on European Union reform; reporting progress on interior and justice affairs, although differences remain over the European Parliament.

French President Jacques Chirac and German Chancellor Helmut Kohl, meeting in Dublin, agreed on a common foreign and security policy by appointing a senior official to represent the bloc internationally.

Both countries agreed on the need to change the weighted voting system to give the big member states more clout relative to the smaller ones as a prelude to the enlargement of the EU to take in former communist Central European states.

Afghan refugees creating problems

Amnesty International appealed to Germany to suspend deportations of Afghan asylum-seekers now that the Taliban radical Moslem militia had taken power in their homeland.

The militia, which captured the capital of Kabul last week, has executed a former president, banned women from workplaces and imposed strict Islamic rule on Afghan society.

The interior ministry said it would wait for a foreign ministry report on the latest developments in Afghanistan before deciding whether to suspend deportations. There are about 5,000 Afghan asylum-seekers in Germany

Ireland

South American Drugs in Ireland Too

Irish customs officials discovered and seized the largest haul of drugs from South America to Europe ever recorded.

Liam Hurley, director of the Customs National Drugs Team, said more than half a ton of cocaine had been found in secret compartments inside the Sea Mist, a converted trawler impounded while on route from Venezuela.

The trawler, en-route to continental Europe, experienced engine trouble and was forced into Cork harbor on the south coast of Ireland.

Police became suspicious of the trawler because it was not flying a flag and the two West Indian men, two with addresses in England, and a Venezuelan woman told conflicting stories. It appeared the cargo was destined for either Denmark or France. Ireland's miles of remote coastline have made it a haven for drug smuggling with the country being used as a trans-shipment point for the import of drugs to Europe.

IRA Bomb Statement

Text of statement issued by the IRA.

"Volunteers of Oglagh na hEireann (IRA) planted two 800 pound bombs that detonated within the confines of the headquarters of the British occupying forces in Ireland.

The target was personnel connected with the Thiepal barracks and we regret any injuries caused to civilians.

Contrary to media speculation that this action was designed to provoke loyalist paramilitaries, this action should be viewed in the context of our statement of Feb. 9, announcing the end of the 18-month complete cessation of military operations.

As we outlined on that occasion, we called the cessation to enhance the democratic peace process. The British government responded by squandering that historic opportunity in a vain attempt to defeat the IRA.

The resolution of the conflict demands an inclusive negotiated settlement. This is not possible unless and until the British government faces up to its responsibilities.

The blame for the failure thus far of the Irish peace initiative lies squarely with John Major and his government."

The statement was signed by P. O'Neill, the name that usually accompanies IRA statements.

Russia

Starving Army

Russian Defence Minister Igor Rodionov appealed to Boris Yeltsin for urgent funds to ease a crises in the army before matters get out of control. Rodionov played down the threat of a rebellion in the army, saying the situation was manageable for now, but a backlog of unpaid wages was becoming intolerable.

The army, the pride of Soviet society, has suffered from underfunding and low morale since the superpower collapsed in 1991 and many soldiers haven't been paid for months. Additionally, many soldiers are unhappy over being dragged into the war in breakaway Chechnya, saying it was not their duty to fight inside the country. (maybe the Russian army should inform Clinton and FEMA of this)

Recently ousted General Lebed said the army was close to mutiny because of mounting frustration. The army's allegiance to Lebed is strong; and a military coup against Yetsin is not unthinkable.

Drug problem in Russia also

Interior Ministry officials said two million Russians regularly take illegal drugs and as many as 15% of the country's 150 million people have had contact with narcotic substances.

The number of people consuming drugs in Russia has increased twofold the past decade, with the highest increase among young people.

The Russian State Duma has not allocated any money to fight illegal drugs during 1996. Profits from the production and sale of drugs topped $554 million dollars in 1995. That figure is expected to triple by the end of 1996. About 80,000 crimes linked to drugs were committed in 1995, up from 16,000 in 1990.

The rise in drug consumption has triggered a dramatic increase in the growth of aids cases.

Most of the drugs come from Afghanistan and the former Soviet republics of Central Asia.

Economic Disaster for people

Millions of Russians, struggling in a tough new world market economy, have not been paid for months. Wage arrears have risen to 40 trillion rubles during 1996.

16-18 million Russians, almost a quarter of the working population, have not received what they are owed for their labor. The government and newly privatized firms ignore their bills, workers go for months without pay and power companies struggle to supply factories because they have not been paid.

The wage arrears have prompted strikes across Russia, especially in the Arctic and in the Far East. Average yearly wages in Russia are 850,000 rubles ($160) a month.

The communists, the largest party in the Duma, are capitalizing on the economic hardship of the people, and are hoping to strengthen their position in the Federation Council upper house.

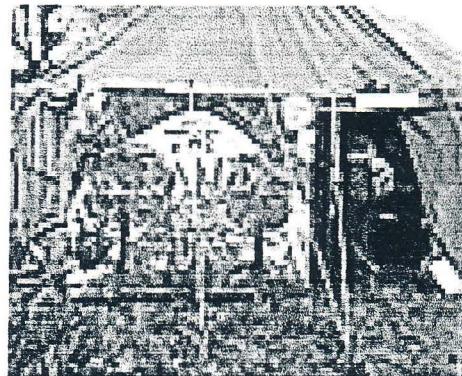

NATO expansion has Russia on-guard

The planned expansion of NATO to include former Soviet allies has frightened Russians and may damage Europe's geopolitical structure, Russia's chief of the General Staff Mikhail Kolesnikov said.

Several former Soviet-bloc countries have applied for NATO membership and diplomats widely suggest that the Czech Republic, Poland, and Hungary are leading candidates for an initial wave of alliance's expansion. NATO leaders have said they press ahead with expansion despite Russia's objections.

In addition to these countries Slovakia also announced intentions to join NATO. Russia is firmly opposed to further NATO expansion.

South America

Elections Brazilian style

Elections in Brazil remind one of an old Huey Long campaign. Each election, rival politicians descend upon the town of Cavalcante, located in the arid highlands, and populated by the Kalungas, bringing with them political favors; Brazilian style.

Armed with dancing girls, bottles of cachaca, a fiery sugar-cane spirit, diesel generators and accordion drum bands; the politicians provide the otherwise neglected Kalungas a week-long electoral binge.

Candidates' biggest challenge is making sure the mostly illiterate potential voters know how to vote. One woman stands by the side of the road with her six children, unashamedly waiting for the candidate with the best offer before she will move.

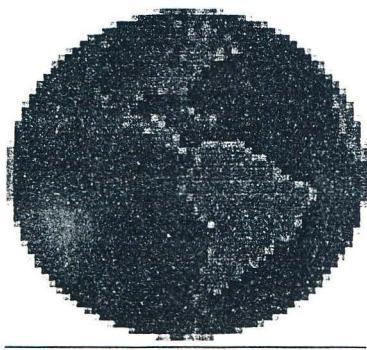

Closer to home, we've actually witnessed this Brazilian tradition being implemented in the counties of Eastern and Southeastern Kentucky. The hollows surrounding Inez are renowned for election day goodies.

Brazil rejects US anti-drug money

Brazil recently refused $710,000 in funds from Washington earmarked for anti-drug counternarcotics efforts. Brazilian officials said they rejected Washington's offer of help because the sum was laughable and completely out of proportion with the problems of drug-smuggling faced by Latin America's largest country.

Brazilian officials also said that in 1995 Washington gave $50 million and 15 airplanes to Bolivia, $30 million and six helicopters to Columbia and $30 million to Peru. The officials further explained that US Drug Enforcement activity was cracking down on drug-smuggling in neighboring countries, forcing more cocaine from Bolivia and Columbia to flow through the Amazon river basin.

Colombia

All Colombians linked to drug trade

Colombian President Ernesto Samper told CNN recently that in Colombia, there's not one Colombian who indirectly or directly hasn't been linked to drug trafficking. That's why I represent Colombia so well, Samper added, in reference to scandals that his 1994 election campaign was partly financed by Cali cartel drug lords.

Colombia's Vice President, Humberto de la Calle, resigned last month citing the campaign drug scandal and what he described as rampant corruption in the government. Calle termed Colombia a narcodemocracy.

Also, Helmer "EL Pacho" Herrera, the Cali cartel drug kingpin, who's worth is estimated at $11 billion dollars, surrendered to Colombian officials after the United States request for extradition was denied by the government. The extradition ban was passed by Colombia's congress in 1991 - most likely to protect drug-lords such as Herrera.

Samper delivers heroin to US

Colombia President Ernesto Samper was forced to give the country's chief prosecutor written evidence after a stash of eight pounds of heroin was found aboard his private jet.

The President was on his way to the United Nations when an anonymous phone call revealed the presence of drugs upon the Samper plane.

The pilot, also commander of the Catam military air base in Bogota, where the Boeing 707 was stationed, was fired as part of the inquiry into the heroin discovery. Ten other crew members were also arrested.

In an unprecedented diplomatic move, the State Department withdrew his visa because of his known links with cocaine traffickers.

There was speculation the heroin may have been planted by the US Drug Enforcement Administration (does that sound familiar) in a bid to topple Samper. According to the DEA, Colombia has edged out Southeast Asia's Golden Triangle as the No. 1 supplier of high grade heroin to the US.

Peru

Innocent Terrorist freed

Three journalists were awarded pardons recently based on a new body created to speed the release of those jailed unjustly on charges of terrorism. All told, 31 prisoners are expected to be pardoned and released.

As part of a tough anti-guerrilla strategy, President Fujimori introduced in 1992, a secret military court system, where anonymous judges usually wore hoods when passing sentence.

Eventually, negative public pressure forced the dismissal of the courts. Human rights groups claim there remain 750 more political prisoners imprisoned unjustly.

Mexico

Drug hitmen nabbed by US-Mexico

Mexican and US authorities captured five hitmen for one of Mexico's most feared drug cartels in a series of raids in Mexico and California.

Two of the men were responsible for the execution of Baja's chief of anti-drug police in Mexico City.

The five gatilleros (hired guns) were part of the Tijuana cartel, run by the Arellano Felix brothers. The Tijuana-San Diego area is probably the most heavily drug-trafficked border area between the US and Mexico

NAFTA leftovers

The highly touted rebirth of Mexico, anticipated to take place due to NAFTA, has never materialized. NAFTA advocates claimed a free market with Mexico would allow Mexicans to buy untold amounts of American made goods, thereby creating multitudes of American factory jobs.

The results have been just the opposite. In the first place, at the prevailing labor rate of $.85 per hour, Mexicans can afford nothing American workers produce. Secondly, NAFTA was touted as a builder of living conditions and communities south of the border; far from it, increased poverty and decreased living conditions have resulted.

The US continues it's chief export to Mexico, Machinery to fill factories filled with low-wage workers; and Mexico continues it's chief export to the US, Drugs to fill Americas cities and schools.

Editorial Suggestion: The US government is constantly seeking new way in which to employ the military. Try this; Bomb the shit out of Mexico and Colombia and kiss drugs goodbye.

Mideast

Iraq

Rebuilding-Planning continues

Sadamm Hussein, snubbing his nose at the United States $44 million dollar cruise missile attack, has already rebuilt and replaced the ground-to-air radar facilities destroyed in Southern Iraq.

Meanwhile, Sadamm's supposedly embargoed oil stock continues to flow..through His enemy, Iran; and Our ally, Turkey. Jordan also receives and off-loads oil from Iraq.

Sadamm is undoubtedly the most resilient foe America has ever encountered. He has caused derision among what once was an alliance; destroyed internal upheaval; modernized his army; earned the grudging respect of nearby Arabs; and still possesses a battery of Scud missiles, probably with chemical warheads.

He forces the US to station, at considerable cost, an armada of ships, jets and personnel. He is becoming a fabled hero-figure among Arabs for his successful stance against the great Satan-America; and is the most likely ruler in the region to provoke a first strike war against Israel. (which is not such a bad...oh, we better not say it, Morris will get mad)

Israeli Troops torture Palestinian teens

(Disclaimer: any passage quoted by Israeli sources must be taken for the grain of sand it represents)

Palestinian teenagers charged Israeli soldiers with making them drink urine during a brief detention in the West Bank town of Hebron.

The two teenagers, Bahjat Abdel-Raaoug al-Awaiwi, 16 and Abdel-Raouf al-Awaiwi, 14, said themselves, along with 28 other Palestinians were held for hours at a Israeli military checkpoint in Central Hebron. When the teens asked for water, Israeli soldiers brought them bottles of stinking yellow liquid. The teen refused to drink it because it smelled like urine but, the soldiers beat the two teens and forced them to drink the urine.

The teens filed complaints with the municipality and with international monitors in Hebron. An Israeli army spokesman said the army was checking the report. He further stated it was customary for Israeli troops to drink each other's urine. He refused to comment on reports that Israeli soldiers also eat camel dung.

Israeli control over US

The Jewish mini-state, which controls the American Congress, CIA, press, Hollywood and the Drug House, is itself in a state of economic collapse. The socialist state's only exports are the Holocaust and death to neighboring Arabs. Its chief imports are advanced weapons systems, and money from America. American troops, again under the auspices of the UN, patrol the Israeli held Golan Heights. American Patriot missiles defend the skies surrounding their cities.

Israeli airports are protected by the latest high-tech baggage scanning devices; courtesy of the US. (American airports have no such protective devices, due to cost)

If America maligned its Black and Spanish minorities as Israel does the Palestinians; worldwide condemnation would result.

Egypt

Civil war continues against government

Almost 1,000 people have been killed and thousands more wounded since Muslim militant groups launched a four-year-old battle to topple the government and transform Egypt into a strict Islamist state.

The latest incident involved the shooting deaths of four policeman and a farmer in Southern Egypt. The gunmen were members of the militant Garra's al-Islamiya fighting to overthrow the government.

Turkey

Turkey PM meets with Libya, Egypt

Turkish Prime Minister Necmettin Erbakan flew to Egypt for a two day visit ahead of a planned controversial trip to Libya.

The Prime Minister will meet with Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak before meeting with Libyan President Gadhafi in Tripoli to discuss and boost trade ties.

Libya owes Turkish building contractor $365 million in outstanding debts. The United States, afraid the Prime Minister is driving Turkey away from the West, expressed concern over the trip.

Turkish Foreign Minister Tansu Ciller, threatened to resign over the matter, but, Erbakan said he only hoped to strengthen commercial relations with Libya, adding America is our friend and ally.

In addition to Libya and Egypt, Erbakan will also visit Nigeria, itself something of an international outcast for its human rights record and lack of democracy.

Turkey is positioning itself, under PM Erbakan, to become further independent of America's influence.

Human Village Statistics

If we could shrink the Earth's population to a village of precisely 100 people; with all existing human ratios, it would look like this:

- There would be 57 Asians, 21 Europeans, 14 from the Western Hemisphere (North & South) and 8 Africans
- 51 would be Female; 49 would be male
- 70 would be nonwhite; 30 white
- 70 would be non-Christian; 30 Christian
- 50% of the entire world's wealth would be in the hands of only 6 people and all 6 would be citizens of the United States
- 80 would live in substandard housing
- 70 would be unable to read
- 50 would suffer from malnutrition
- 1 would be near death; 1 would be near birth
- Only 1 would have a college education
- No one would own a computer

Village Politics

Its evident by now the American voting public has accepted the idea of their families and children being raised by The Village. Also, that mothers relish being termed soccer moms.

Since 65% of the voting women support these Clinton / Hillary philosophies; one wonders whether repeal of the XIX Amendment, enacted in 1920, would be prudent. Women today demand equality of work, wages, etc. We demand women exhibit equality of Reason. There is no reason involved in Women overwhelmingly supporting a known women sexual abuser such as Clinton. It reinforces the pre-conception that women arrive at decisions based on their heart - not their head. If not for female votes, their would not be a Democrat in office in the country, Repeal the XIX Amendment!
